Masonic Barbecue.

There will be a big Masonic barbecue at Sheridan July 3. Prominent speakers will address the people, and everything necessary will be done to make it a pleasant and profitable occasion. The lodge at that place pur poses to raise money enough to pay off an indebtedness.

An Eleven Day's Meeting.

The colored people are preparing to hold an eleven day jubilee meet ing in the grove north of town, be ginning July 1. A number of min isters are expected to assist in the meeting, and services will be held twice a day. Barbecued meats, ice cream and cake are on the bill of fare, and a big time is expected.

Death in the Country.

Miss Delia Millican died at the home of her father, Wm. Millican, of the Sheridan neighborhood, Friday, after a few days illness. She was a popular young lady and many friends regret her death. Two of Mr. Millican's daughters have died within a few months, and his many friends sympathize with him in his great loss.

Goheen in Jail.

Sunday E. C. Coffey, a Livingston county constable, delivered T. W. Goheen to jail. Hard. At the last sitting of the grand jury Goheen was indicted for arresting a man without authority of law, and for carrying a concealed weapon, since the finding of the indictment he has been in Livingston county. He is now in jail to await trial. The alleged offense with which he is charged was committed at Dycusburg in the arrest of J. C. Moran.

Hill's Spring.

Hill's Spring, in the Woodall neigh borhood, promises to be quite a re sort this season. The grounds have been cleaned off, some fencing done, and other conveniences arranged for campers. Last year a number of fam ilies went into camp there, and it is reported that at least seventy five families have signified their intention of spending a few weeks there this summer. The water possesses fine medicinal qualities, and the location is a superb one for an outing.

Dunn Springs.

Dunn Springs, Ky., June 13.—Rev. W. R. Gibbs, the pastor of the church, preached to a large congrega tion here Sunday, and baptised six persons. Among those baptised was a grandmother and two grandchild ren and it was a touching scene. Bro Gibbs has been the pastor now nearly three years, and under his pasto rate the church has been built up, and strengthened both in numbers and spiritual life. We also have a splendid Sunday school. Old Dunn Springs is doing a great work in the community.

Medical Society.

The Crittenden County Medical So ciety held its regular meeting Mon day. The physicians present were: J. H. Clark, J. O. Dixon, A. S. H. Boyd, J. R. Clark, C. J. Moreland, I. H. Clement, J. J. Clark, T. A. H. son Frazier, J. W. Trisler, E. M. Newcom, J. W. Crawford. Dr. W. J. J. Paris, of Elizabethtown, Ill., was present and joined the society.

There was a general discussion of typhoid fever, in which every member of the society participated.

Subjects were assigned to different members of the society for discussion at the next meeting, and the society adjourned to meet on the third Tues day in July.

The meeting Monday was pronoun ced one of the best and most profit able in the history of the society. Good interest has been aroused among the physicians, and it is expected that every physician in the county as well as a number from adjoining counties, will soon become members of the or ganization.

COUNTY COURT.

The Wills of Jos. Land and J. H. Hawk ins are Probated.

The will of Joseph H. Land was presented in court and proven by the subscribing witnesses, A. M. Baldwin and W. S. Dodds. The testator be queaths all of his property, after the payment of his debts, to his wife Mar thy J. Land, and she is made the sole executor of the will. At the death of the wife, the residue of the estate, if any, is bequeathed to William G. Land, son of the deceased.

The will of the late J. H. Hawkins was probated; it bears date January 15, 1881, and the subscribing witness es are W. F. Wilson and R. N. Wal ker. The property of the deceased was bequeathed to his wife, if she survived him, and at her death the remainder, if any, to R. W. Wilson, making the request that said Wilson shall look after the welfare and com fort of the wife.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. J. C. Wilson, hasty, was continued until the next term.

Messrs. Barnby and Hargraves filed a petition for a new road, and Messrs. A. Towery, E. L. Nunn and H. L. Sullivan were appointed view ers to report upon same.

W. A. Pierce, B. L. Sullongor and W. N. Rochester were appointed road overseers.

Children's Day at Dycusburg.

Dycusburg, Ky., June 13.—This was children's day at Dycusburg and the Methodist church was packed with people to witness the interesting serv ices. The Sunday school Supt., ably assisted by the two tireless workers, Messrs. P. K. Cooksey and T. J. Yeats, had arranged for the occasion, and they had reason to be proud of their work. Addresses were made by Rev. A. J. Thompson, of Kuttawa, and Messrs. Yeats and Glass of this place. The little folks had appropri ate recitations, and their part of the programme was most delightfully re ceived. Among the little girls who participated were Misses Ray Cooksey, Lucy Gregory, Annie Graves, Lulu Ramsey, Hattie Yeats and Mamie Richards. The little boys were also in evidence.

Miss Willie Cooksey presided at the organ and assisted by her choir,—a splendid one—the music was inspir ing. Among our good singers, whose talent did much to make the occasion a success, are Misses Cooksey, Waters and Cassidy, and Messrs. Ed. Dalton, J. R. Glass and Billy and Marvin Charles.

At noon the contents of the well filled baskets were spread in the grove, and there was plenty for all, and some left. At 4 o'clock Rev. A. J. Thompson preached a splendid sermon. It was a day that will be long remembered in this community.

BY CHANCE.

Murder of Nearly a Half Century Ago Revealed—Indictment Promptly Returned.

Princeton, Ky., June 12.—The grand jury adjourned here this even ing, returning 23 indictments, one of which will create considerable ex cite ment as soon as it becomes known. It is against Moses Hobby, colored, charging him with willful murder in killing Holeman, colored, over forty five years ago. The strange part of the matter is why Hobby has not been indicted long ago.

Very few living here now know anything of the case. The grand jury had an old negro woman before them on other business, and she incidentally spoke of the murder, when a thor ough investigation was had with the above result. The witnesses are very old people. The indictment charged Hobby with putting poison in whiskey and giving it to Holeman. A bench warrant was issued immediately, and the sheriff was sent out for him.

No one except the officials know anything of the indictment, and when known it will create quite a sensation. Your correspondent endeavored to secure some of the facts of the kill ing but only a few around town re member the matter, and no details can be secured.

GAUNT HUNGER.

The Pitiable Condition of Miners in Pennsylvania.

STARVING AND IN RAGS.

Alfred Henry Lewis has been in the coal mining regions of Pennsylvania, investigating the condition of the mines. The following is from his letter to the New York Journal:

There are, roundly speaking, 35,000 coal miners in western Pennsylvania, and 20,000 in neighboring Ohio. As many as 20,000 are also in West Vir ginia and hard by the same number in Illinois. These 95,000 slaves of the lamp are to represent as the bread winners for full 300,000 of our peo ple. And what I set down as of hard ship and starvation and overriding wrong in the grimy cases I have visit ed, exists also in coal mine regions. What is had in the Pittsburgh district, where 18,000 of the 35,000 miners of Western Pennsylvania dig and sweat out their dim lives is equally ex tant as an evil wherever by drift or shaft the hunt for coal is made.

Fourteen miles from Pittsburgh, I traveled seeking among the lamp lit mines for that "prosperity" of McKin ley's that certainly one found no trace of on the earth's surface hereabout, whereof manufactory and furnace one half are sick and one half dead, and none of them healthy at all. Yes, I sought "prosperity" in the howls of the earth, for it might make its lair among the mines. I went to Moons Run, and Toms Run, and Painter's Run. On Moons Run, with twelve hundred miners and three times as many folk, little and old, living by the mines, I found men and women and children, not in want exactly,—that would not be the story—I found them starving.

These people were thin, and pinch ed, and eaten by need of food. One might tell it in their drawn faces, with skin like parchment. One might see it in their eyes, large and wild and wildly bright. There were fam ilies of these mine folk. There had been no work for months and months and months. There were households of five, and six, and eight, the aggre gate earnings or gettings of any one of which had not reached $100 dur ing the twelve months last past, and in many an instance not a splinter, not a penny of this had these mine people seen and handled. "The com pany" had sopped it up for what they "owed at the store" or for rent of a company house (hovels) before even it was earned. How these folks had lived I know not—they knew not them selves.

SUNK IN DIRE POVERTY.

There they were, hopelessly ragged and a prey to dirt, and above all hun gry, thin, wan, grimy. Six, eight, and as high as ten in a hovel unfit for swine, they presented a condition of life compared to which the lot of the poor of Mexico is the sublimation of worldly success. One would go to the mines of Siberia before one could find a fellow in misfortune to the miner of Moons Run, as he lies starving in his rage while this is written. This will be hard to believe, I know. The lo cal papers say little or naught about it, for reasons I will leave you to guess. But my story is true. Come, oh philanthropist! with your benevo lent hosts to India and your aid to Armenia, come to Moons Run and put me to proof.

"How do you live?" I asked one of these gaunt wretches of Moons Run. There was gulping agitation in his lean throat, as if he swallowed some thing; a sob perhaps. Then he said: "We don't live; we don't even ex ist. It has been terrible, it is terrible. Perhaps"—here a little flame of hope burned in his eyes like a taper—"per haps if they get that tariff bill passed times may be better."

There was a craving for some an swer of encouragement in this last sen tence. This man had voted for Mc Kinley. He still thought that some how or some time "prosperity" might come. After tariff mayhap it would put in its belated appearance.

I had no heart to tell what my own thoughts were—poor Hanna hunched creature. He will be starved to death long before any backwater of prosper ity to rise from any high tide of "pro tection" comes flowing up his glen, but I could not tell him so. Let me take you to Toms Run, be ing specifically the town of Federal. Of all places there was the least suf fering there. It will be more pleasant to show you Toms Run than the other it is less like a leper colony than is Moons Run. But, recurring to what I have said to starvation, and lest you deem the term one of exaggeration, let me first quote from a report made the other day by a State legislative committee on mine investigation; they speak of starvation, and while they speak but little they must have wit nessed a deal of hunger to make them do so much. Your politician is ever and always alike; and in this investi gating instance he will say as little as he may to offend the millionaire mine operators, for whom these poor mine people starve.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT.

Here is a line from the report. It excuses the "operator" while furnish ing the fact of the starvation:

"As to the condition of the mining business it is unremunerative to both operators and employes alike, and is gradually becoming more so, result ing in the bankruptcy of the opera tors and the poverty, destitution and distress, and in many cases, the actual starvation of the miner."

There you have it, this starvation, from the timid lip of a legislative com mittee, and quivering to please capital. It is the last thing the commit tee would admit if it could help it, but the hollow eyed truth, foodless, helpless, hung on the members and haunted them to do it.

One of the greatest curses, accord ing to his letter, to the native miner is the foreign miner. The Huns, Slavs and Poles have been imported in great numbers. Sixty per cent of the miners in that section are Slavs, and their beastly mode of living en ables them to starve out the English speaking miners. After describing their filthiness and utter want of de cency in every respect, Mr. Lewis quotes from a report of a legislative committee recently submitted, as fol lows:

Sixty per cent of the miners in the Pittsburgh district are foreigners, who went there without any knowledge of the government. They congregate in mining communities in a way that al lows them to retain their manners, customs, and even laws. Few of them become Americanized. They crowd into miserable dwellings, in many cases living worse than beasts, and by their practices become a menace to the lives, health and safety of the community. We find the homes of these miners at many of the mines in a very filthy and untenable condition. The miners are herded together like cattle and in many cases wallowing in their own filth. Their condition is a rebuke to our civilization and a dis grace to our State, degrading and de basing American labor and helping to drag it to their own level.

Six Million Petitioners.

Washington, D. C. June 14.—The most noticeable thing in the House today was a brass mounted, finely carved reel, about forty feet high, nearly filled with a roll of paper containing signatures. It was presented by Mr. Sulzer, of New York, who explained that it was a petition to Congress ask ing it to pass the joint resolution granting the rights of belligerency to the Cuban revolutionists. It was signed by six million people.

The petition will be referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs when appointed.

OLLY JAMES.

The Orator of Western Kentucky Makes a Great Speech at Dawson.

Dawson, Ky., June 12.—One of the largest crowds that ever gathered to hear a speech in Hopkins county greeted Ollly James here today. The big opera house was crowded un til there was not standing room left for another, and then hundreds were compelled to forego the pleasure of hearing the host speaker in Western Kentucky, and the coming man of the First Congressional district.

For an hour and a half Mr. James addressed the people, and no man ever had closer attention or was more roundly and incessantly applauded. His speech was devoted mainly to the financial issue, and it was exhaus tive and convincing. Judging from the way this speech was received, it may be said that there is no disinte gration of the silver forces in Hop kins county. The defeat of last fall has not effected their courage nor dispirited their hopes, but they are standing man for man in their old place, and there they will remain un til the affairs of the government is taken from the hands of the Shylocks and bond dealers.

THE SILVER REPUBLICANS.

Chairman Towne Shinks They May Hold the Balance of Power in 1898.

Chicago, June 9.—The Executive Committee of the National Silver Re publican party held a session this af ternoon to discuss methods of carry ing on the organization. The Nation al Committee of the new party did not hold a meeting today as intended, but decided to leave the selection of the Executive Committee to Chair man Towne. Ex-Senator Fred J. Du bois of Idaho will be chairman of the committee. The others have not yet been selected. National headquarters will be in charge of ex-congressman Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota, and for the present will be at Duluth. The committee favored immediate or ganization for the congressional elec tions of 1898, and also for the cam paign of 1900, and instructed Chair man Towne to push this work as rap idly as possible. Chairman Towne said that the conference was expected and that he believed it indicated that the silver Republican would hold the bal ance of power in the congressional and presidential contests. The out look is certainly bright.

Suicide at Princeton.

Princeton, Ky., June 11.—Chris tian C. G. Reichard, an old and re spected citizen of this county, com mitted suicide this morning by hang ing himself. No cause is assigned for the rash act, as he was in fine cir cumstances financially, but it is sup posed that while laboring under tem porary mental aberration he went to the barn, climbed upon a barrel, fas tened the rope around his neck and kicked the barrel from under him. When found he was dead.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT.

Condition of Crops and Live Stock June 1, as Reported by Commissioner of Agriculture.

For the June report replies were received from 164 correspondents, re presenting 112 counties, leaving only the counties of Adair, Edmonson, La rue, McLean, Oldham, Simpson and Woodford failing to report.

WHEAT.

The condition of the wheat crop on June 1 averages 93, which is a loss of two points during the month of May. June 1, 1896, the condition was 61. The crop continues to show the best conditions in the central portion of the state, where 12 counties report an average above 100. The highest average condition is in Franklin county 125. In Henderson county the con dition is 55, the lowest. Livingston county follows closely with a con dition averaging 57. Marshall is the only county in Western Kentucky where the prospect is especially bright 110 being the average reported in this county.

CORN.

The condition of the corn crop on June 1 averages 82. On the date in 1896 the condition was 93. The crop continues in a very backward state. The weather conditions during May were not calculated to enable the crop to regain the loss due to late planting. The stand retained so far is mainly reported good. Very few complaints are made of damage by cut worms.

OATS.

Although there was a lack of sun shine and moisture during May, the crop shows an improvement from 75 May 1 to 82 on the date of this re port. The condition on June 1 1896 was 69. No special features present themselves in connection with the crop. With a return to seasonable conditions a fair crop may be ex pected.

TObACCO.

Little was done towards setting the tobacco crop until the last week of May, when a fair season prevailed over a greater portion of the State. This is in striking contrast with this date in 1896, when practically the en tire crop had been set and much of it had received cultivation. Plants are mainly reported scarce and small, al though in some counties, where a sea son is still wanting, the plants are re ported as getting too large to trans plant. The acreage for the entire State averages 63 per cent of the acre age for 1896. Separating the dark and hurley districts the acreage for the former is 66 and 62 for the latter. Replies received to special inquiries as to the possible effect of violent des truction of plant beds and written de mands for a curtailment of the crop, show no effect on acreage will be had from this source.

MEADOWS.

Meadows are quite promising, the only drawback being an unusual amount of weeds in those that have been standing for a number of years. The condition averages 88.

PASTURES.

The condition of pastures averages 94, which is about what might be ex pected, considering the cool, dry wea ther of May. From Livingston coun ty comes a report of pastures com pletely destroyed by the army worm, which, so far as the report goes, is confined to one farm.

ISSUED WEEKLY.

R. C. WALKER, Publisher.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

Bradstreet reports 256 business failures last week, as against 234 in the same week of 1896.

If prosperity is so close at hand, why does any man want to hook himself to a small government job?

China has two serious rebellions on hand, one in the extreme southern and one in the northern provinces.

One of the reforms at Washington is putting the White House attendants in uniforms. It is a startling innovation.

President McKinley visited Nashville, was royally received and entertained, and is now back at his desk in Washington.

The appointment of a commission to act upon needed financial legislation is simply increasing the cooing to spoil the broth.

This talk of annexing Hawaii suggests that it is not more land that "Uncle Sam" needs, but more money for the tenants of that which he has.

The latest statement on the Cuban question is that President McKinley will not withdraw and non-combatants on the island treated with more consideration or this country will take a hand.

The goldbug papers are swearing by the great horse spoon that times are getting better. They said the horse would be sixteen feet high by this time and they are sticking to it, notwithstanding the fact that the annual has already shrunk.

The gold buglers have called a convention in Kentucky. This hot weather is a good time to hold conventions, if the delegates are able to regale themselves with all that goes with ice, and we know of none more able than the bankers. Then the crowd will not be so large that it will embarrass any one of them to "set 'em up."

Lieut-Governor Worthington is holding down the gubernatorial chair at Frankfort, and is showing great liberality in his pardoning prerogatives. The grand old Dr. J. E. Hourigues, who was serving a ten year sentence for murder, and he commuted the death sentence of Dillard Rainey who was sentenced to hang at Winchester Monday.

If the tariff measure does not bring the promised relief to the country—and there are few who believe it will—the President ought to send another message to Congress and have the financial question tackled. If the financial legislation Mr. Gage wants will tone up business, let us have it at once. No need to have the patient suffer until next December if the doctor is on hand with his remedies now.

When capital organizes to control the prices of goods, it is doing about the same things that mobs do when they organize to regulate matters and things. The only difference in the crime is the degree. The same contempt for law, the same spirit of wrong moves each, and if drastic laws are necessary to wipe out the mobs, they are equally as necessary for the welfare of the public to curb and kill insatiable greed, which as times grow harder becomes more rapacious.

The idea of a commission to settle the currency question carries with it the suggestion that Congress is incompetent to manage the affairs of the people. Such a commission would simply be an extra frill or fur below on the body politic to further complicate governmental affairs. The fewer the agents and agencies the people have the less expensive government will be; and the fewer the agencies the nearer they will be to the people. Congress is amply able to manage affairs, and constitutional responsibilities should not be shifted to men who are not amenable directly to the people.

To have international bimetalism it is conceded that England must join in the work of restoring silver, because she controls the financial matters of other European countries. Hence the view she takes of the commission now in Europe from this country is especially interesting at this time, and her great newspapers reflect the sentiments of the governing class in that country, and here are expressions from some of them:

London Times.—"As a matter of fact the Wolcott bimetallic commission is nothing but a device for postponing unwelcome decisions."

Pail Mail Gazette.—"President McKinley's efforts for international bimetalism are futile. If he is not aware of this he shows a depth of ignorance to which Presidents of the United States seldom descend."

Every time a plan is suggested whereby the money devil can be made to bear an equitable portion of taxation, somebody, and it is generally some one who sneezes whenever the capitalist takes snuff, cries out: "It's a scheme to retard enterprise." The old cry of "encourage enterprise" is getting to be a chestnut. It is well enough to "encourage enterprise" in a legitimate way, but there is no sense in offering a lot of men who have a lot of money, exemption from taxation in order to get them to invest that money where they will make more money. The releasing of the banks in Kentucky from the payment of their share of the taxes is a fair sample of "encouraging enterprise." It is simply giving capital an advantage over labor, or releasing capital of a portion of its share of taxation, and placing the burden on labor. These capitalists call their scheme "enterprise" and attempt to persuade people that enterprise will be retarded, or that it will take wings and fly away, if not given a softer snap than the good old honest business of farming is accorded. Agriculture is the foundation of all other business in the country, and it is getting about time to regard it as an "enterprise," and tending to it some of the exclusive courtesies that have heretofore been confined to capital in the shape of money.

In order to learn the financial condition of the country at the present time, or at any period during the past decade, in the United States, all that is necessary to do is to refer to the New York price of silver bullion at the period desired. The prevailing business situation will be found opposite the quotation on the silver thermometer.

For instance we want to find out the present general condition of silver, we find it about 60, at which point the thermometer tells us that the newspapers depict as the prevailing conditions—uneasiness, strikes, failures.

The barometer has been carefully tested for years. Its reliability is guaranteed. We will give a new $5 hat and a $4.80 suit of clothes to the first person that can show where it has erred since it was published years ago. It is based upon that great economic principle that the appreciation of gold measures the decline of other products. Any great product could be used, but silver is available as its quotations are easily ascertainable. The same rules that have made gold and silver the great mediums of international exchange during the past thousands of years will hold good in the future.

And the silver barometer will continue to record, through the quotations of silver conditions just as reliably as it has in the past. We therefore urge those of our citizens who are seeking an improvement in business conditions to be more tolerant to the silver question, to study and find out the truth in regard to it and doing so, get it back to the point which bespeaks a "general prosperity."

We believe that conditions are on the mend. Sauerbeck's statistical tables tell us that the average of 45 principal commodities, averaging from 1867 to 1877 100, have steadily declined year after year since, until in May they averaged about 60 or 40 per cent less than twenty years ago.

This decline must put gold about as high as it is possible to go, under present conditions. With labor so low it is now seeking the yellow metal, and with the usual successful result. The gold output will increase it will multiply, but there is need for all that will be discovered. There never will be too much found.

The shrinkage of gold could be brought about at less cost and with greater universal advantage through the remonetization of silver, but the people of the world have yet to realize this great fact.

Congressman Grosvenor, of Ohio, is staying awake of nights devising plans to get the Democrats, who are protected by the civil service law, out of the revenue service. It may be safely stated that success will crown his efforts.

The American people ought not to be content with anything save an abounding prosperity; a property reaching all men and women and willing to work.—John Wannamaker.

John Wannamaker is becoming decidedly refractory. He has shown a disposition to kick out of the "prosperity" harness on more than one occasion. Notwithstanding he was Postmaster General under Harrison, he is persistently refusing to wear a blindfold and declare that he sees things that are not. He is looking straight out, and square ahead, and does not hesitate to say that the prospect is anything but charming. John offers no remedy, but he does object to a pantomime prosperity. It may be that he begins to believe that President Harrison was right when he said that the increase in the volume of our currency by the addition of the silver coined under the Sherman act was helping business, or he may think that Uncle Jerry Rusk had a level head when he announced in one of his official reports as Secretary of Agriculture that this addition of honest silver dollars to the circulating medium had raised the price of the farmer's grain. John may or may not take this view of the matter, but one thing is certain, he speaks the unvarnished truth in the lines we quote. With a country so homeless in its resources, so vast in its area, not one reason can be given why we should be satisfied with anything short of "an abounding prosperity."

Eugene Debs and his co-laborers are holding a convention in Chicago for the purpose of organizing and putting in shape their Co-operative Commonwealth. Over 800 delegates are in attendance including Edward Belamy, Prof. Parsons of the Boston Law University, A. S. Edwards, of the Ruskin Co-operative colony, Rev. Myron Reed, of Denver, and Prof. Larmod, of Maine. They propose to organize the unemployed, and take them to one of the Western states, and all live and work as brothers. In his speech Debs said:

"Women will go. It will be a community of homes and families. The people will be educated. They will have newspapers and literature. They will develop the resources of the State: organize industrial enterprises, build roads, canals, school houses, and public buildings. Six hours a day for each man will be sufficient to produce enough for the community. The man who toils the hardest will work the fewest hours. The common store will supply all. The kitchen in the home will be abolished and food will be distributed from the common kitchen. The general conduct of the colony will be such as the Federal statutes will countenance, and it will be a happy, bright spot in civilization, where men will be brothers."

Watterson is now the man without a party.

To Vote on Local Option.

Sturgis, Ky., June 9.—By order of the county judge, Sturgis will be given a chance to vote on the liquor question July 8. The town of Sturgis has always been under the prohibition act, though the law has been repeatedly violated. The prospects are that when a vote is taken the law will become inoperative.

Only Distillery.

Paducah, Ky., June 11.—The only moonshine distillery in Callaway county was raided yesterday by a party of revenue officers and collected over $1000 of this city. The distillery was situated on Blood river in an almost inaccessible cave. The officers have been trying to locate it for several years, but were never successful until yesterday. The still was destroyed and about twenty five hundred gallons of "moonshine" was hauled into the stream near by. The owner escaped.

Stealing from Tobacco Strippers.

Louisville, Ky., June 10.—It is said that since last January one of the smaller warehouses of the city has been guilty of defrauding tobacco raisers of the State by means of a skillfully concocted scheme.

For instance they are said to have made it a frequent practice to report the weight of tobacco to the raiser at a figure greatly less than what it really was, pocketing the difference themselves, and they are also said to have reported to the raiser that their tobacco sold for a much less sum than it really brought, and they are also said to have held back payment on consignments for two, three, and in one or two instances four months. A number of cases have been preferred against the house.

A nice shower has put new life in to everything, and is quite enjoyable since the last few days have been so warm.

Several of our people attended the county Sunday school convention last Saturday. They report quite an interesting time.

Little riding to do now. The board of trustees of our school have selected Prof. C. C. Howard, of Hampton academy, as principal and Miss Grace Gwintney as assistant. In regard to school matters we do earnestly hope that a reformation will take place in our town, there is a lack of something that we haven't got, something must be done, there was not even an election held, and the unfinished "board" seem to have on their moping caps, with don't care in their hearts. Some one please "come over and help us."

NEW SALEM.

Uncle Billy Conger is quite sick.

W. C. Tyner and wife spent last week on the river. We think Bill finished planting his corn crop.

Wheat harvest will get here this week. We are glad to notice a considerable improvement in this crop, and from present indications it will be needed.

The present outlook for the farmer, so far as corn, tobacco and oats crops go is the worst that we have seen in many years. The corn crop is in the clouds and don't seem to promise anything but a very poor yield, and should the present dry weather continue there will simply be no corn raised. Pastures are eaten down to the ground, meadows and clover are the shortest in many years.

Rev. Thos. Wring preached at Childress school house the second Sunday evening.

Will Taylor has the best wheat in this section.

Rev. E. M. Eaton and family visited Mrs. Staton's father's family near Elm Grove last week.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL.

Cowboys and Outlaws Have Turned to be Christians.

Perry, Okla., June 13.—An unprecedented revival of religion has prevailed at Ingalls, Cushing and Lawton of late. A religious movement began in this section six months ago, and has continued until it has grown to wonderful proportions. Six months ago the town of Ingalls, which at one time was considered one of the toughest towns in the two territories, had six saloons. Today it has none, and nobody could get a license to go into the saloon business. Some of the former liquor sellers are now superintendents in Sunday schools; others are Sunday school teachers, while nearly all are members of the church.

An area of forty miles square, including Ingalls, Cushing and Lawton for years was the home of the most noted outlaw bands that ever operated in the west. It was the rendezvous for the Dalton, Doolin, Cook and other noted bands, whose members are either dead or are serving terms in the penitentiary. Twenty odd men have been killed in Ingalls within the past six years. Near Lawton fourteen people were killed in a short time.

But all this is past. Where whisky drinking, gambling, and all sorts of outlawry existed, churches and also church going people are now in control.

Mr. R. B. Greeves, a merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief, spent many nights sitting up in a chair was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. Wise Parents.

Take proper care of your children's eyes. Cross eyes with children and young persons are mostly the consequences of uncorrected anomalies of refraction, or of a muscular defect. In many cases it can be overcome by timely wearing the proper glasses. Believe your eyes in every possible way use glasses fitted by an expert as soon as there is any need for it; don't wait too long, and don't try to select yourself the glasses; for there are persons who wear glasses when they should not, and don't wear any when they should; if your eyes are not what they ought to be have them examined free. Dr. R. M. Rivdin, the expert optician, will be in Marion, Ky., July 1, 2 and 3, as usual in D. J. H. Clark's office. A careful examination costs you nothing. A cordial invitation extended to all. PINEY CREEK CHURCH

Stands By Fox and the Pastor, Eld. Eli Eaton, Resigns.

Eli Eaton who had been pastor of the church several months, tendered his resignation as pastor, and stated that as the church had endorsed Fox's course, the proper thing for it to do was to call him to the pastorate, and that he would no longer serve the church in that capacity.

The Kentucky Teachers Association convenes in Bowling Green June 29, and will remain in session three days. The programme is an unusually inviting one, and the best talent in the state has been recognized in the make up.

Fell From a Train.

Tuesday evening, a short distance north of town, a young man named Baker fell from the rear end of a coach of the northbound passenger train, as it was speeding along at the rate of about twenty miles an hour. The train men did not discover the accident until some minutes afterward, and the train was backed and the young man picked up. In the meantime some men working in a field had seen the fall and had gone to the assistance of the fallen. He was pretty badly hurt; he lived in Henderson county.

Later it was learned that the accident was occasioned by the boy's swinging out from the coach and striking a fence at a cattle guard as the train rushed along. His injuries are more serious than appeared at first; the physicians think that he can not recover. He is twelve years old and his home is at Corydon.

Better Late than Never.

Through an oversight, and not from lack of appreciation, the Ohio Valley Brass Band and Orchestra has until the present failed to express its thanks to the many ladies of Marion for the enjoyable ice cream benefit supper, tendered us on the evening of May 27, at the residence of Mrs. Clement. Notwithstanding the delay in giving expression to our feelings, the affair was voted an unqualified success, and a resolution of thanks to the young ladies who interested themselves in our behalf was adopted by a unanimous vote, immediately after the pleasant event was brought to a close. Aside from the many pleasant social features of the occasion, the supper netted the boys a handsome sum, and it will be a cold enough day in August to freeze the music in our horns before the appreciation of the complements of the ladies, expressed in such a substantial manner, will be forgotten by the members of the O. V. Band and Orchestra. We are not going to tour Europe this year, girls; be here all summer.

The Kentucky Pharmaceutical Association is in session at Crittenden Springs. About seventy-five druggists from various portions of the State are in attendance. The largest delegation is from Louisville. The published programme has been adhered to in most cases. It is needless to say that the knights of the spatula are having a gay time. This is the first visit of many of them to this famous watering place and are surprised at the magnificence of old Crittenden. The finest waters in the world, as good hotel accommodations as can be had at any watering place in the State, charming grounds and delightful scenery. The guests are finding everything to add to their comfort and pleasure.

A Card from Mr. Truitt.

To the People of Crittenden County: I most heartily thank those who have so kindly honored me, and assure all that, whatever the result may be, such an expression of confidence will never be forgotten. I will greatly appreciate the support of all in the approaching election, and should I be chosen your Assessor, my utmost endeavor and greatest hope will be to make you a capable, faithful officer. I shall endeavor to see all in person and in the meantime remember that I am a candidate and that no one will hold your support in higher regard. Your obedient servant, J. N. TRUITT.

Pleasant Hill.

The annual toilet washing services were held at Pleasant Hill church Sunday, and an immense crowd was in attendance from all sections of the county. The services were interesting, impressive and edifying. There is not a more devout people anywhere than those that worship at Pleasant Hill, and these occasions are great ones for the church. Most of the day is spent in worship, and all the people take part in the services either as listeners or as active participants. The attendance last Sunday was unusually large.

T. E. Griffith will never come to town in the forenoon. No matter how pressing his business may be, his trip is always postponed until the afternoon. When pressed for an explanation he said: "When I get to town I will never leave until night and so to avoid throwing away time in chattering I wait until I just have time to make the trip and get home in time to feed."

Col. A. D. McFee, one of the best farmers of the Ford's Ferry section, is shelling his last year's crop of corn this week. He sold at thirty cents per bushel, and will deliver several hundred bushels.

HARVEY

The Author of Coin's Financial School Lectures in Louisville.

BIMETALLISM IS THE ONLY REMEDY.

The cornerstone of a true republic is humanity. Individual selfishness crystallized into the laws of nations is the cause of the overthrow of republics and establishing of monarchy.
Another truth is: No people, as a whole, have ever understood the effect of law on civilization. Under the feudal law of Europe the owner of English property left his property
to his oldest son, and so on for generations. Under this law the property soon fell to 1 per cent. of the people, while 99 per cent had nothing. The people living under that law did not understand why it was responsible for the condition, because all were misled and their opinions influenced by their various land lords.

We have laws among us that are as effectually transferring the property from the many to the few as the old feudal land laws did. And our people are as loath to grasp the reason as the people then. The merchant who wants favors from capital is responsible for the laws, and the corporation lawyer feeding at the crib is assisting the capitalist. Chief among the laws responsible for transferring the property from the many to the few, is our financial law. Money is a medium of exchange and a measure of values. As a measure of values it will only deal with it now.

Under bimetalism gold and silver were both primary money. The theory of bimetalism is gold and silver competing with each other to supply the demand for primary money. If one grew scarce we used the other,
if one was cornered we used the other. So two metals made a better standard than one, and in all the hundreds of years there were used they never varied three per cent. From 1850 to 1873 there was nearly three dollars of gold with one to silver mined, and notwithstanding the production the metals were kept within 3 per cent of each other. All the gold available for money can be put on this stage. The supply is limited, and the demand fixes its value. Under bimetalism supply and demand
were at work on both of the metals, and on account of the demand they arose in about the same degree, and when silver was demonetized the demand was made for gold and it went up. There are 23.2 grains of gold in a dollar and no matter how much
it will buy it is still called a dollar.
Suppose all the gold in the world
was destroyed except the gold in one thousand gold dollars—it will be unnecessary for me to say that one of those one thousand gold dollars would buy the State of Kentucky, and the next morning you could read in the Courier-Journal that it was one of those blessings of cheap prices—Kentucky selling for 90 cents.
(Great applause.)

You call a horse a horse, no matter how much he may be worth, and so with your dollar. It is the primary dollar that fixes the value of the representative dollar. When silver was demonetized the demand was placed on gold, and that is responsible for the fall of prices. We say the sun rises and sets, but it is not so, and the people speak of money
as incorrectly—they have referred to a rise in money as a fall in the prices. What does the fall of prices mean? Money is a necessity. Under a fall of prices you are compelled to contract debts. In 1873 debts of the people amounted to $6,000,000,000,
and now it is about $40,000,000,000.
Falling prices have caused this. The merchant of fifteen years ago
who owed no debt has had to meet the competition and now he is compelled to go to his banker. What does this mean? It means under falling prices we can not pay those debts. It means the confiscation of the property, the borrowing of new money, to pay old debts. Under a civilization that recognizes debts as the contraction of money falling prices mean the guillotine to the people.

Let me tell you what would have happened if a free silver president and congress had been elected. Instead of the period between the day of election and March 4 approximately one million of men would have gone to the mountains to work for God al-might, and that many would have been taken away from the over crowded labor market and given all something to do. Back from these mountains we would have come plenty of silver, with its rising prices. Then would the guillotine have been removed. With rising prices farm lands and products would be in demand.
People in the crowded cities could have gone to the farms, and worked carefully for themselves. Why would this have happened? Because the demand for farm products would have drawn them there. Then, instead of strikes and riots, tramps and panpers, the laborers would have a aid to their employers. "How much will you pay us?" Within six months after the election of Bryan and a free coinage congress there would have been prosperity. As property fell with silver when demonetized, so would it have risen if restored to a standard. With these views, is there any wonder that you hear of silver turning up again as the issue of 1900

We are bound to bring it up, knowing what is in the mind of the men.

They say that the free coinage of silver is in the interest of the silver bullion owners. But if that is so is not the free coinage of gold in the interest of the gold bullion owner? It is society that is benefited by a proper adjustment of the money question. They ask how will you get any of the silver? The bullion owner first pays the miners for the machinery, the powder that blasted the rock
the railroad that hauls it, and when he is done paying he is a lucky man who has a cent left. It is a money that circulates itself.

They say they want to retire the greenbacks—infamy upon infamy.
They say the government is the redeemer of representative money and that the gold supply is "always being drawn upon, and the only way to stop it is to stop making greenbacks."
They want to trade the government
off for a national bank. Approximately $20,000,000,000 of our indebtedness is held by people in Europe.
Admit it is only $5,000,000,000, the interest amounts to more than $200, 000,000. You may save it off by borrowing more money, but the end is bound to come. Last year there was due us in gold $300,000,000
from foreign countries, but we did not get it because it went towards paying interest.

They say we should have an international money. There is no such thing as international money. We deal with foreign countries in bullion, which is weighed. By putting America under the same financial blanket with Europe, all Europe has got to do is to turn over to get the blanket.

This is a desperate struggle. The struggle between greed and humanity.
It is the struggle between the good spirit and the evil spirit which has ever existed. Individual selfishness crystallized the laws of the Roman government and it fell. It has crossed to this country. Here we have reared an independent government, but individual selfishness is crystallizing
the laws. Here we faced the same enemies the people of every age have faced, but we have no country to which we can fly. Greed chased humanity around the world until now it stands at bay in this country. How will we face it? Will it be the same story over again? Are we to repeat the history of that age. The same conditions exist. We are today virtually hounded classes, and what is the result? It is a desperate struggle.
It is the appeals of humanity against selfishness. This thing is not confined to one section of this country.
These men are all over the country.
You can only win by reason and peace. These men hold a power I am afraid you do not understand,
and I ask you to prepare for the end.
Do not truckle to them. If your employer objects to your being for this cause tell him to stop and think. Explain to him how some day his children may become tramps through the operations of this law.

We can win the struggle in 1900
if we begin the fight now. Then we can pay our debts. Then we will be on the road of purchasing a better and brighter civilization. Two armies are forming in this country. On the one side selfishness, mammon and greed. On the other the army of the people, with an angel as a guide.

Don't neglect a cough because the weather is pleasant; before the next storm rolls around it may develop into a serious difficulty beyond repair.
